

2011 Defendant/Offender Workforce Development (DOWD) Regional Conference

“Scope of Practice” August 16 – 18, 2011 Call for Proposals

Explosive growth in the number of people on probation or parole has propelled the population of the American corrections system to more than 7.3 million. The Department of Justice reports that one of every 15 people in this country will serve a prison term during their lifetime and one in 32 individuals is currently in prison, on probation or parole. Of those released, 67.5% will be rearrested within three years. Having a meaningful job with a livable wage and reducing the barriers to employment has proven to reduce the likelihood of re-offending.

The theme of the conference is Scope of Practice, which refers to the range of work tasks appropriate as a result of your training. To do our work ethically and serve those in transition with integrity, we must confine our tasks to those which we are trained for and are within our scope of practice. For tasks beyond our field, we must rely on others in our community. Reentry is a process sustained through collaborative partnerships, meaningful contacts, and dedicated individuals.

The planning committee, including representatives from the Federal Bureau of Prisons, U.S. Probation and Pretrial Services, South Seattle Community College, Washington State Department of Corrections, and other CPTS members invite submissions from anyone interested in presenting at the DOWD Regional Conference.

Conference Workshop – 90-minute traditional format. Workshops can include panel discussions or a sole presenter. Audience participation is encouraged.

Conference Audience

Attendees include federal, state and local corrections staff and administrators, offender workforce development specialists, directors and staff of federal agencies involved in offender reentry, parole and pretrial service officers, faith-based community organizations and other organizations involved in offender workforce development.

Conference Topic Areas

All submissions should highlight the conference theme, address the unique issues of those working with individuals in transition, and introduce tools and resources needed for success. Key topic areas have been identified for this conference as follows:

1. Partnership Development/Collaboration Efforts;
2. Direct Services (housing, basic needs, education and training, family re-integration)
3. Targeting Skill Needs (assessments; apprenticeships; programs; special populations) and Addressing Barriers (internal; external; personal; legal)
4. Labor/Industry Demands; Jobs and Employers; Employment Retention
